

Learning & Development Specialist - 1 day

Learning& Development faces an increasing challenge to justify its effectiveness in the face of rapid changes in business organization and advances in technology. Money spent in learning and development also increases considerably. How can we be assured the quality of learning and development program worth the cost and how can we asses and measure it.

The big issue today is how to manage learning& development program effectively so that it would lead to better performance at an individual, work and organizational level.
